

Pop-In Drop-In: Registering for Classes

Q: Do I really need to register for classes?

A: Absolutely! Accepting your offer is just the first step—it tells us you plan to come. Registering for classes is what actually confirms you’re attending and locks in your spot. So don’t skip this part!

Q: When does registration start?

A: It’s happening this week! It kicks off Thursday, December 11, and by Monday all programs will be open. Want the exact date and time for your program? Head over to the registration page on the college website—it’s all there.

Q: How do I register? And what if something goes wrong?

A: You’ll register online through self-service. We’ve emailed you instructions, and they’re also on the website. There’s even a step-by-step tutorial to guide you. If you hit a snag, no worries—join one of our virtual drop-in support sessions and someone will help you out.

Q: What’s my student number and where do I find it?

A: Your student number is your personal ID at the college. It usually starts with A00. You can find it on your offer letter (check your email or the mailed copy). Keep it handy—you’ll use it a lot!

Q: Do I need to pay my tuition in full before registering? How do I check what I owe?

A: Yes, your current semester needs to be paid. The deadline was December 1. To check your balance, look at your invoice or visit the “Paying for College” section online. If you’re on OSAP or sponsored, you don’t need to pay in full right away—but sponsored students must send their paperwork to Finance first.

Q: How do I make a payment?

A: Super easy—pay online through the Student Payment Centre. If you’ve got your invoice, flip it over for instructions too.

Q: When will I get my class schedule? Can I pick my own?

A: Once you register, your schedule will show up in self-service. We use block scheduling for core classes, so you don’t choose individual classes. If there’s more than one block, you might get to pick the one that works best for you. And yes, you can choose your electives.

Q: What if the block I want is full?

A: Don’t stress—just reach out to the admissions office by phone, email, or hop on a virtual support session. They’ll help you figure it out.

Q: Are all my classes in person, or will some be online?

A: Most programs are in person unless you're in an online-only program. General electives are often online, but expect to be on campus for most of your classes.

Q: How do I know if a class is online or in person?

A: Check your schedule—if there's a room number, it's in person. No room number? Probably online. You can also confirm in iLearn or look for an email from your instructor with the link.

Q: Can I change my program before classes start?

A: You can, but it's not always the best idea. You'll need to withdraw and reapply, which costs $150, and there's no guarantee there'll be space in the new program.

Q: Can I change my schedule after I register?

A: You might be able to switch blocks if there's room, but you can't swap individual classes.

Q: What's the last day to add or drop a class?

A: For most programs, you have until January 23. For Dental Hygiene, Practical Nursing, and Aviation, it's January 12. If you're in the School of Sport and Recreation, the deadline is January 16.
