CALL FOR POETRY

Sassan Filsoof, "Fingerprint" (2015)

The RGRLL Department invites all poetry lovers to read a poem they cherish that itself reflects on culture and identity.

Readers must:

- choose a poem in a language other than English inspired by the theme, broadly understood (identity, or self-conception and self-perception, as related to nationality, ethnicity, religion, social class, gender, generation, locality or any kind of social group that has its own distinct culture. etc.)
- limit their reading to 3 minutes or less
- provide electronic copies of the poem in both the original language and in English translation by November 10th, 2022

Please email your name, contact information and selection to rgll@csulb.edu by November 10th, 2022
