

I like this quote because it tells me that no matter how small the action is, it can make someone's day and it never dies.

I like this quote because it has a good meaning because kindness is never forgotten. If you do something nice to someone, they will never forget. It makes me feel good because you know you did something right. Then it will be like a cycle.

It is really easy to spread kindness just saying hi to someone. You can smile at someone, say hi, buy someone a cup of coffee and wave. Random acts of kindness can come back to you.

I hope you enjoy the rock that I painted and I hope it brings happiness to you.
