

Together, we continue to learn!

Pedagogical support provided to your child

- Teaching and pedagogical support from a distance
- Assessment of your child's learning progress by their teachers
- Preparation of a work plan for your child, which includes exercises and activities tailored to their needs
- Weekly check-in meeting that includes you, your child and a school staff member
- Technical support on the use of technological equipment for distance teaching and learning

Additional resources to support your child

- The Open School website, with numerous educational resources for continued learning in each subject
- Educational options on the Open School website, with suggestions for organizing each day by subject
- Educational activities kits (including simple, fun activities) to reinforce learning in compulsory subjects
- Special television programs and educational content provided in partnership with Télé Québec (available at enclasse.telequebec.tv)
- Free access to the electronic versions of textbooks, workbooks and other resources, provided by major educational publishers until the end of the school year
- Access to school premises, by arrangement, to pick up workbooks, textbooks and technological equipment
- Continued access to the services of LEARN for all Québec students and parents

Your child's role

- Become familiar with the work plan provided by their teacher and follow it
- Adopt a regular schoolwork schedule
 -  Tip: The educational options available on the Open School website could be used to draw up a weekly schedule
- Participate in the distance classes provided by their teacher(s), if applicable
- Do their schoolwork within the prescribed timeframe
 -  Tip: Make use of the suggested resources

Your role as a parent

- Provide your child with technological equipment and an appropriate workspace in which to use it
- Become familiar with the work plan and help your child to draw up a schedule
- Guide and support your child in their continued learning

If you do not have access to technological equipment or a stable Internet connection, contact your school to assess the options (it may be possible to lend equipment to your child)
